What is Carlinga?

Carlinga is a little program that helps typing special characters like œ, B,½, Á.

It automatically replaces some character sequences, called hotstrings, with special characters. For example, to write a, you type ,-> or &rarr.

Main advantages

Hotstrings are easier to remember and to type than codes like alt+0225. Using hotstrings is faster than using Character Map or similar utilities.

Getting started

Just put carlinga.exe anywhere on your computer and start it. In the notification area, you'll see a new icon representing a map of world languages. Open any Windows program and type ,oe. This hotstring will be replaced with \mathbf{c} . Type ,-> and it will be replaced with \rightarrow .

To close Carlinga, just right-click on the icon in the notification area and choose Exit. You can also deactivate hotstrings temporarily by right-clicking on the icon in the notification area and choosing Suspend Hotkeys.

Carlinga needs no installation and is portable. You can start it from a USB flash drive.

Background

Carlinga is an Autohotkey script. The hotstrings are generally inspired by Linux compose sequences and html entities.

Carlinga is open source software. It is published under the GPL licence http://www.gnu.org/licenses/gpl-3.0.txt

You can adapt is easily to your own needs by editing the .ahk files and running them using Autohotkey Basic. (They don't run with Autohotkey_L).
